90-Second Microlearning Storyboard

Giving Constructive Feedback Using SBI

Writer name:	Akshaya
Date:	October 6, 2026
Lesson Title:	Make Feedback Clear with SBI
Learning Objective:	After watching this video, learners will be able to structure a workplace feedback conversation using the Situation–Behavior–Impact (SBI) framework.
Word Count:	141 words (spoken dialogue/narration)
Duration:	90 seconds

Storyboard

#	Time (approx.)	Visual (Scene & Action Details)	On-screen Text / Graphics (OST)	Dialogue / Narration (Voiceover)
1	0–10s		Meet Linda Junior Associate	Narrator: Meet Linda, a junior associate. She's working on a project that needs input from an SME, but the reviews keep getting delayed.
2	10–18s		Manager: How would you address this with the SME?	Manager: How would you address this with the SME? Linda: I... I'm not sure. They're just not responding.
3	18–30s		✕ PERSONAL JUDGMENT • Vague • Emotion-based • Not actionable	Linda: They're difficult to work with. They're not responsive, and it's affecting my work. Manager: That sounds personal. Instead, focus on what happened, what you observed, and its impact. Let me show you a simple framework called SBI.
4	30–38s		Linda explores communication techniques on her own.	Narrator: Later, Linda looks up ways to give clear and constructive feedback. Linda (thinking): Okay, let me learn a technique that can help me communicate better.
5	38–58s			Narrator: Linda discovers SBI — a simple way to give clear and constructive feedback. • Situation: When and where did it happen? • Behavior: What did the person do? • Impact: What was the result?
6	58–75s			Linda: During yesterday's content review, you sent comments three days after our deadline, which delayed development by a day. SME: I see. Thanks for sharing this. I'll make sure to review within the agreed timeline.
7	75–85s			SME: Let's align on a clear timeline. I'll share my review by Thursday. Linda: Great! That works. Thanks for your support.
8	85–90s		One framework. Three steps. Better feedback.	Narrator: Linda now uses SBI in her day-to-day conversations. It helps her give feedback that is clear, specific, and actionable. One framework. Three steps. Better feedback.

Without Illustrations

#	Time (approx.)	Visual / Scene & Action Details	On-Screen Text / Graphics (OST)	Dialogue / Narration (Voiceover)
1	0–10 sec	Open in a modern corporate office. Introduce Linda, a junior associate, working at her desk. Show that she is waiting for SME input and that the review is delayed. Keep the scene realistic and uncluttered.	Meet Linda Junior Associate SME Review Pending Deadline: Delayed	Narrator: “Meet Linda, a junior associate. She’s working on a project that needs input from an SME, but the reviews keep getting delayed.”
2	10–18 sec	Linda's manager approaches or joins her for a quick discussion. The manager asks Linda to explain how she would address the SME challenge. Linda appears unsure.	Manager: “How would you address this with the SME?”	Manager: “How would you address this with the SME?” Linda: “I… I’m not sure. They’re just not responding.”
3	18–30 sec	Close-up on Linda as she explains the issue. Her statements appear as thought/speech bubbles. Then shift focus to the manager, who redirects her. Visually distinguish the judgmental wording from objective feedback.	PERSONAL JUDGMENT • Vague • Emotion-based • Not actionable	Linda: “They’re difficult to work with. They’re not responsive, and it’s affecting my work.” Manager: “That sounds personal. Instead, focus on what happened, what you observed, and its impact. Please review framework called SBI.”
4	30–38 sec	Transition to Linda at her computer. She searches for a way to give clearer, constructive feedback. As she researches, the corporate environment gradually fades/darkens, preparing for the concept transition.	Linda explores communication techniques Search: “How to give constructive feedback?” “SBI feedback model” “Situation Behavior Impact”	Narrator: “Later, Linda looks up ways to give clear and constructive feedback.” Linda (thinking): “Okay, let me learn a technique that can help me communicate better.”
5	38–58 sec	Full transition to a black background. Linda is zoomed	SBI A simple way to give	Narrator: “Linda discovers SBI — a simple way to give clear out and positioned toward the bottom of the screen, as if she is watching/learning from the concept above her. Introduce SBI as a clean animated flow from S to B to I. Each element appears sequentially.	clear and constructive feedback. S — SITUATION When and where did it happen? B — BEHAVIOR What did the person do? I — IMPACT What was the result? S → B → I	and constructive feedback. Situation: When and where did it happen? Behavior: What did the person do? Impact: What was the result?"

6	58–75 sec	Transition back to the corporate setting. Linda now speaks with the SME. Present her sentence in three sequential chunks, visually tagging each chunk as S, B, and I.	S — Situation: "During yesterday's content review..." B — Behavior: "you sent comments three days after the deadline..." I — Impact: "which delayed development by a day."	Linda: "During yesterday's content review, you sent comments three days after the deadline, which delayed development by a day." SME: "I see. Thanks for sharing this. I'll make sure to review within the agreed timeline."
7	75–85 sec	The SME and Linda move from the problem to an agreed solution. Show them looking at or discussing a shared review calendar/timeline. End the scene with both aligned.	AGREED TIMELINE ✓ SME: "Let's align on a clear timeline."	SME: "Let's align on a clear timeline. I'll share my review by Thursday." Linda: "Great! That works. Thanks for your support."
8	85–90 sec	Return to Linda in the corporate environment. She appears more confident. Finish with the SBI sequence connecting into one memorable framework. Hold the final message briefly.	S → B → I Situation → Behavior → Impact One framework. Three steps. Better feedback.	Narrator: "Linda now uses SBI in her day-to-day conversations. It helps her give feedback that is clear, specific, and actionable. One framework. Three steps. Better feedback."

Higher-Order Thinking Assessment

Question 1: Linda wants to explain the SME review issue to her manager. Which response best uses the SBI technique?

Option 1: "The SME is difficult to work with. They're not responsive, and it's making my work really stressful."

Explanation: Incorrect. This focuses on Linda's feelings and makes a judgment about the SME, but does not clearly identify the situation, observable behavior, and impact.

Option 2: "The SME has been delaying my work because they don't seem to prioritize my requests."

Explanation: Incorrect. This assumes the SME's intention and does not clearly describe a specific situation and observable behavior.

Option 3: "During yesterday's content review, the SME sent their comments three days after the agreed deadline. This delayed my development work by a day."

Explanation: Correct. It identifies the Situation, observable Behavior, and Impact clearly and objectively.

Option 4: "I'm having some challenges with the SME. Could you speak to them about responding faster?"

Explanation: Incorrect. The response is too vague and does not give the manager enough specific information.

Question 2: After learning and using SBI with the SME, Linda explains the outcome to her manager. Which response best demonstrates clear SBI-based communication?

Option 1: "I spoke to the SME, and things are much better now. They understood what I was saying."

Explanation: Incorrect. This gives a general outcome but does not explain the specific situation, behavior, or impact.

Option 2: "The SME was more cooperative this time, so I think the problem is solved."

Explanation: Incorrect. This is based on a general impression and does not provide specific, observable details.

Option 3: "During our follow-up conversation, I explained that the review comments had arrived three days late. The SME understood the impact on development, and we agreed on a clear review timeline for future submissions."

Explanation: Correct. It communicates the situation, behavior, impact, and resulting action clearly.

Option 4: "I told the SME that the delays were affecting me, and they promised to be more careful next time."

Explanation: Incorrect. It mentions the impact but does not clearly establish the specific situation and observable behavior.